

Janet McCune

CEBS
Principal

CURRENT RESPONSIBILITY

Janet McCune is a principal and leads business development and communications for Milliman's Employee Benefits Administration Practice. She has more than 25 years of experience in the industry and joined the firm in 2006. Her responsibilities at Milliman encompass business development for defined contribution and defined benefit administration, actuarial, health and group benefits, investment advisory, and communication services. She also handles product strategy, development, and execution, as well as participant communications education curriculum development and delivery and account management for key Milliman clients.

EXPERIENCE

Prior to joining Milliman, Janet was group vice president at American Express Retirement Services and Ameriprise Retirement Services. In this role, she led the national sales team responsible for acquisition of large market 401(k) clients. In addition, she established the consultant relationship practice and led the national Workplace Financial Planning sales team.

Janet has also served as account manager and consultant for Watson Wyatt & Company (now Towers Watson), where she was responsible for deployment of team resources from the retirement, health and welfare, communications, and technology practices for her clients. She has extensive experience working with participant communications methodologies and strategies for benefits programs.
